

gett it, but without any threatning words to M^{rs} Tovey, but after a little time she tooke out some bundles of papers and threw them upon the table, and the mortgage was look'd out, but by whom this Deponent is not certain, And Majo^r Ringold haveing it in his hand, delivered it to me to read it after I had read it, I delivered it to Majo^r Ringold againe and M^{rs} Tovey demanded a copy of it, and Majo^r Ringold replyed it was needless to give her a copy of it, and to any thing in the said Letter saith not

Lib. R. R. R.

Jonas Greenwood

William Harris Depos:

William Harris aged 40 yeares being duely sworne and examined at the request of Anne Joce Saith

That he was at the house of M^r Samuel Tovey when he dyed with Majo^r James Ringold & severall other persons, but as to Majo^r Ringolds demanding a sight of all the goods in the house of M^{rs} Ann Tovey the then widow, saith he never heard a word of it; but a very little time after his death, sitting in the roome where the said M^r Tovey dyed, Majo^r Ringold desired me to goe into the yard with him, where it was discoursed whither M^r Tovey might not have a will, I replyed I thought it convenient that it might be enquired off, for the good of his Children in England, by reason the then widow was but a Mother in Law to the said Children, and the Estate might be Imbezelled, as concerning the words said to be spoken by Majo^r Ringold, that if she would not lett them search for a will, as he was a Justice, and hjs Sonn in Law a Constable, he would give a warrant for the breakeing open the Chests, To the Depon^{ts} knowledge there was noe such words spoken to M^{rs} Tovey; but Majo^r Ringold came to this Deponent, and asked whither it might be done lawfully, This Deponent replyed he did not know, and Maj^r Ringold did then say here is Josias Lanham a Constable, may I not give a warrant to him to search for a Will, but there was not any warr^t given: as to the delivering the keys, I did not see them delivered to any One, but this Deponent Saith he did see the said M^{rs} Tovey with Josias Lanham, Majo^r Ringold and Hanse Hanson goe from one roome to another in searching for a will, but did not heare any threatning words given by Majo^r Ringold to M^{rs} Anne Tovey: As to any other thing this Deponent knows nothing, neither of what was done at the house of the said Samuel Tovey the 14th of November last, and further Saith not

P. 131

Will Harris