On the half moon battery.

15 pieces cannon, upon a straight frame, without tomkins, clamps, or aprons; appear to be in good order and better fixed than heretofore.

Your committee find, that there has been no arms or ammunition received into the magazine, since the report made to the honorable house in the year 1765, and that the arms are in much the same condition as they were at that time except those in the council chamber, and the cannon on the battery, which appear to be in good order, and the latter better fixed than when that review was made.

Having applied to the armourer for the amounts of the arms and ammunition received into the magazine, and delivered out, he acquaints your committee, that he has delivered out none, since he has had the charge thereof, and that he never had any amounts relative thereto, given in to him

Your committee further beg leave to acquaint the honorable house that the arms in the cellar below the conference room, unless soon removed, will be much damaged by the rust, and imagine it would be most advisable for them to be sold for the benefit of the country;
