2 It is there. It is in the sections which ori-
3 ginally were numbered 4.14 and 4.15, I think in the 4 Commission draft, <sup>and</sup> ~~but~~ the executive department for line 5 veto on supplementary appropriations is of course retained.

6 There are two kinds of budgets that we have. One
7 deals with the appropriations and the other with capital
8 expenditures. We discussed capital expenditures yester-
9 day, where the state appropriates its full faith and 10 credit, but if the General Assembly properly, legally and 11 in timely fashion seeks any form of a capital improvement 12 not called for by the governor's capital budget, they 13 have a right by supplementary capital budget appropria-
14 tion to provide for such an expenditure, but this is the 15 difference. Up until what was adopted here, you would 16 have a separate tax provision, usually a real estate tax
17 to call for the payment of the principal and interest
18 yearly as they become due on these bond issues.

19 Since we are now departing from that kind of a 20 measure of providing for payment, we now say that if the 21 bill, the supplementary appropriation bill contains an
