

From 1919 to 1930, inclusive, 212,642 pieces of game have been liberated in the covers for propagation purposes.

The first public shooting ground in Maryland was opened on November 10, 1928, on a 600-acre tract of land bordering on the line between Washington and Allegany Counties.

In 1926, all fish pots and dams were removed from the Potomac River and its tributaries, thereby giving the fish free access up and down the stream at all times.

The Division, in March, 1927, thru the co-operation of the National Association of Audubon Societies and the Board of Education of Maryland, placed a lecturer to their forces to visit all the public schools in Maryland and lecture to the pupils on the necessity of conservation. This action met with such hearty approval that in October, 1929, the second lecturer was engaged. This work has proven very successful and wonderful results have been obtained. In addition to the lectures in the schools, these men also lecture to parent-teacher associations and clubs.

The Division publishes quarterly the "Maryland Conservationist", which goes into every state in the Union, all the provinces of Canada, as well as some of the European countries.

In 1925, the Department published a bulletin on the "Muskrat Industry of Maryland", which has advertised Maryland not only on this continent but throughout the European countries.

In 1930, thru the co-operation of the State Board of Education, a book entitled "Some Birds of Maryland", containing thirty-two illustrations was placed in the hands of each teacher of the public schools of the counties to be used as a textbook for educating the pupils to the necessity of the conservation of bird life.

Important bulletins are issued and released thru the press from time to time on the work being done by the State Game Division.
