HISTORY

Chapter 332—1943

The College was chartered as the Centenary Biblical Institute on November 27, 1867. In 1869 the first building was occupied at 44 E. Saratoga Street, Baltimore. In 1880 the institution moved to larger quarters at the corner of Fulton and Edmondson Avenues in Baltimore. The late Dr. Lyttleton F. Morgan gave a sum of money to the school in 1890, which enabled the institution to offer training on the college level as a result of which the name of the school was changed to Morgan College. In June, 1917, the College took title to its present site, a tract of land formerly known as the Ivy Mills Property.

The College became part of the educational system of the State of Maryland through an act of the General Assembly, Senate Bill 377, approved May 3, 1939. The Bill provided for a commission of five
