Morgan State College was organized in 1867, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as the Centenary Biblical Institute. In 1890, the school's name was changed to Morgan College in honor of Dr. Lyttleton Morgan, whose gift of a large sum of money enabled the school to offer academic work at the college level. The school remained under church jurisdiction until the State of Maryland purchased it in 1939.

By Chapter 550, Acts of 1975, Morgan State was granted university status. A public University, Morgan now includes the Schools of Business and Management, Urban Studies and Human Development, Education, Graduate Studies and a College of Arts and Sciences.

The University is governed by a Board of Trustees consisting of twelve members appointed by the Governor for six year terms. Six of those first appointed were selected from the former Board of Trustees of Morgan State College. By Chapter 538, Acts of 1976, a student in good standing at the University appointed for a one year term, became a member of the Board.

The University is fully accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the State Department of Education. It is also approved by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, the American Chemical Society, the American Medical Association, and the Maryland State Board of Public Accountancy.

The University, which consists of twenty-two departments, offers twenty-eight baccalaureate and twenty Master's degree programs. The faculty, which approves of all academic programs, consists of 65 full professors, 70 associate professors, 81 assistant professors, 60 instructors, and 7 assistant instructors. A staff of 467 persons also services the University.

During the academic year 1975-76, 6,361 students were enrolled at Morgan. Four thousand seven (4,007) were full-time students and 1,854 were part-time students (Code 1957, 1975 Repl. Vol., 1975 Supp., Art. 77A, secs. 71-82).
