

State of Maryland, To wit:

We the undersigned, the Electors, appointed by the State of Maryland, to choose the President and Vice President of the United States of America, do hereby certify and declare that on the 15th day of December Instant the same being the first Wednesday of the month, we met at the City of Annapolis, the place appointed by the laws of Maryland for the meeting of the Electors of President and Vice President of the United States, aforesaid, and were then and there furnished by the Executive of the State of Maryland with a transcript of the ratification made to them by the Secretary of State for the United States of the ratification of the amendment to the Constitution of the United States, as proposed by the Congress of the United States to the several States at the first Term of the eighth Congress of the United States, begun and held at the City of Washington, in the Territory of Columbia, on Monday the thirtieth day of October in the year of our Lord 1803, two thousand and three, and that we did then and there, aforesaid, agreeably to the Constitution of the United States as amended, and of the act of Congress entitled "An Act relative to the election of a President and Vice President of the United States, and declaring the officers who shall act as President in case of vacancies in the office, both of President and Vice President," and of the supplementary act thereunto, by separate and distinct ballots for one person as President, and for one person as Vice President of the United States of America, and also by and through ballots designate the person voted for as President and the person voted for as Vice President, as aforesaid; and on examination of the ballots it appeared that

Thomas Jefferson, of Monticello, in the State of Virginia had one vote, as President of the United States of America:

And

Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, of the State of South Carolina had two votes as President of the United States of America;

That

George Clinton, late Governor of the State of New York had one vote as Vice President of the United States of America,

And that

Rufus King, of the State of New York had two votes as Vice President of the United States of America.

In Testimony whereof we have at the City of Annapolis,
