

widely, but the utmost good feeling has prevailed at all times, and now at the close of the session,

I congratulate one and all that no strained relations exist among you.

As you go to your homes to resume your diverse avocations may the richest blessings of a kind Heavenly Father attend you.

I now declare the Senate adjourned sine die.

ALFRED RITTER,

Journal Clerk.

Attest: ROBERT MOSS,
Secretary of the Senate.