Proprietary Record Liber P. R., originally known as Liber E, p. 5-200 (p. 1-4 missing), contains mostly records of the Provincial Court, but also has some Council and Assembly proceedings; the only testamentary proceedings are several entries regarding the issuing of letters of administration, Aug. 2, 1642-Feb. 12, 1644[5].

Proprietary Record Liber A, p. 59-359⁵⁰ (except that the leaves containing p. 123-124, 149-150, 277-278, 283-284 are missing; p. 57-58 were present in 1725 when entries from them were transcribed into Patent Record Liber No. 2; the leaf containing p. 396, which completes the volume, and p. 397, which is part of the index, has been bound into Liber Z above), contents similar to volume above, but there are more entries relating to probate matters, May 2, 1647-Mar. 8, 1650[1].

Proprietary Record Liber B, original missing, but practically all of it was copied by the Commissioners of 1716 as follows:

Liber B, p. 4-23 copied in Patent Record Liber No. 1, p. 162-195.

Liber B, p. 29-243 copied in Patent Record Liber No. 1, p. 225-640.

Liber B, p. 243-387, plus 2 pages numbered 188-189 and about 50 pages not numbered, copied in Patent Record Liber No. 2, p. 133-448.

⁴⁸ The entries are not in chronological order, but all of them fall within the dates given.

⁴⁹ See note 48.

⁵⁰ In the Preface and in the Notes of Volume IV of the Archives of Maryland, the editors indicate a belief that the pages missing in front were removed by Ingle. However, in a list of the pages missing from the records which were moved from St. Mary's City to Anne Arundel Town (Annapolis) in 1694, no mention is made of pages missing in the beginning of the volume although pages 123-124, 277-278 and 283-284 are listed as missing (Arch. Md., XIX, 131). It is inconceivable that the absence of some fifty odd pages in the beginning of the book would have been ignored when the lack of single leaves in the middle of the volume was detected.
