

1 longer introduce a new bill. I think this would account
2 for the relative ease with which Nebraska legislators
3 have grappled, if you will, with the bills that have been 4 introduced.

5 One other comment and then I am at your dis-
6 posal. I would suspect, although this again is a ques-
7 tion which is not incontrovertible, that the number of 8 candidates a voter has to know when he goes to the polls
9 to cast an intelligent vote has been slightly reduced in 10 Nebraska, and this might be a possible argument for a 11 unicameral system. I would venture to guess that this 12 has been of some possible benefit to Nebraska. Whether 13 it would be of similar benefit to other states, I have 14 no idea.

15 MR. ENEY: May I interrupt? Is this more from 16 the unicameral or from the nonpartisan aspect, in the 17 Nebraska system?

18 MR. KENTNER: I would say from the unicameral
19 rather than the nonpartisan.

20 MR. SCANLAN: Wouldn't it also be the fact that 21 they are single-member districts? Each one of them comes
