

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21

THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Winters, we are very grateful to you for meeting with us this morning. We apologize for the sparse attendance. I think it is sparse because of the short notice that we necessarily had to give to the rest of the members. Bob, I would appreciate it if you would formally introduce Mr. Winters to our Committee and the rest of the members of the Commission who are here.

MR. MARTINEAU: All right. Briefly, we are very pleased to have here this morning Glenn R. Winters, who is the Executive Director of the American Judicature Society and has been that for an excess of twenty-five years. In my opinion, at least, Mr. Winters is probably the outstanding authority in the entire United States on the question of the organization of the judiciary system and the various matters related to it, anything connected with the administration of justice. And Mr. Winters has been kind enough to accept an appointment as consultant to the Commission and, in particular, to be the consultant or a consultant to this Committee with respect to its deliberations concerning the organization