

——— Geology of Washington and Vicinity.

In Guide to Washington and its Scientific Institutions.

Compte rendu, International Congress of Geologists, 1891.

House Misc. Doc., 53rd Cong., 2nd sess., vol. xiii, No. 107.

Prepared with the collaboration of G. H. Williams, N. H. Darton and Bailey Willis.
Summary of the local geology.

——— Administrative Reports. Geologic and Paleontologic Investigations.

12th Ann. Rept. U. S. Geol. Surv., 1890-91, Washington, 1891, part i, pp. 72, 76, 117.

Includes the reports of G. H. Williams and N. H. Darton.

MERRILL, G. P. Stones for Building and Decoration. 8vo. 453 pp. Wiley, 1891.

Discusses the distribution, characteristics and production of the Maryland building stones.

PATTERSON, HARRY J. Report of the Chemist.

3rd Ann. Rept. Md. Agri. Exper. Sta. College Park, 1891, pp. 118-129.

Discussion of Maryland marls with several analyses, pp. 119-125.

RUSSELL, I. C. Are there Glacial Records in the Newark System?

Amer. Jour. Sci., 3rd ser., vol. xli, 1891, pp. 499-505.

The author fails to find any evidence for glacial action.

WALCOTT, C. D. Correlation Papers—Cambrian.

Bull. U. S. Geol. Surv. No. 81, 1891.

House Misc. Doc., 52nd Cong., 1st sess., vol. xx, No. 25.

Based chiefly on Tyson's Report. pp. 133, 287, 290. For problems unsolved see pp. 382-383.

WARD, L. F. The plant-bearing deposits of the American Trias.

Science, vol. xviii, 1891, pp. 287-288.

Correlates with the Keuper and the Rhaetic.

——— The Geographical Distribution of Fossil Plants.

8th Ann. Rept. U. S. Geol. Surv., 1886-87, part ii, Washington, 1891, pp. 663-960.

See pp. 870-872. Carbonaceous plants from Allegany county. Cretaceous plants of Eastern Maryland.

WHITE, C. A. Correlation papers—Cretaceous.

Bull. U. S. Geol. Surv. No. 82, 1891.

House Misc. Doc., 52nd Cong., 1st sess., vol. xx, No. 25.

Describes the Cretaceous belt of Maryland, pp. 88-90.

WHITE, ISRAEL C. Stratigraphy of the Bituminous Coal Field of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Bull. U. S. Geol. Surv., No. 65, 1891.

House Misc. Doc., 51st Cong., 2nd sess., vol. xiii, No. 136.

Gives few references and a map which covers a small part of Garrett county.