

1 this because this highlights a difference in recollection
2 between Mr. Brooks and me as to the decision of the Com-
3 mittee on Thursday evening, and I think that there is 4 some inconsistency in the language of the reporting of 5 this Section. Your first sentence says that the County
6 may provide that public local law for creation, and so 7 forth, and that methods and procedures of incorporating, 8 changing, merging, and dissolving them -- which I take 9 it, as written would refer grammatically to new municipal 10 corporations.

11 It was my understanding that the Committee's 12 final decision was that the County would have full power
13 to alter the powers of existing and new municipal cor-
14 porations and that the only thing that required the con-
15 sent of the municipal corporation was its dissolution.

16 Mr. Brooks' recollection is that you didn't 17 go that far and that the withdrawal of powers, as well
18 as dissolution of the existing municipal corporations 19 required its consent. Now, one thought is implicit in 20 one sentence, and the other thought in the other, and 21 therefore, we are not clear as to what the Committee intended.
