

Commission, Anne Arundel County; Lois Green Carr, Historian of St. Mary's City Commission; St. Julien R. Childs, Editor, Archives of Maryland; Howard W. Christian, student of the Contemporary Significance of Original Land Survey Patterns in the Delmarva Peninsula, Syracuse University; Charlotte C. Cook, graduate student, University of Maryland; Margaret Cook, historian of Prince George's County, Oxon Hill; Betsy Crone, Governor's Task Force on Modern Management; Brigitte Marie Delorme, U.S.I.S., American Embassy, France; Edward S. Digges, Jr., graduate student, Princeton University.

J. Fred Dorman, genealogist, Washington, D. C.; Caleb Dorsey, research on the original tracts in Howard County, Baltimore; William V. Elder III, Baltimore Museum of Art, Baltimore; C. Ashley Ellefson, Associate Professor of History, Cortland College, Cortland, New York, research on the Development of the Common Law Courts in Maryland to 1775; Gyözö Ember, General Director of the National Archives of Hungary in Budapest; H. Vernon Eney, President, Constitutional Convention of Maryland, 1967-1968; Sister John Fisher Farrell, research on William Pinkney, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan; P. William Filby, Librarian, Maryland Historical Society; Richard P. Fuke, graduate student, University of Chicago; Joy Gary, research on Patrick Creagh.

John T. Guidas, graduate student, Georgetown University; Bright C. Halwindi, National Archives, Lusaka, Zambia; Mrs. Norris Harris, genealogist, Glen Burnie; Pauline J. Harris, graduate student, Morgan State College; Mrs. Truman E. Hienton, historian of Prince George's County; James E. Highsmith, indexer, Historic Annapolis, Inc.; Ronald Hoffman, research on The Maryland Merchant Community, 1760-1790, University of Wisconsin; Thomas F. Hubbard, former Executive Secretary, Board of Examiners and Registration of Architects; Bryden B. Hyde, architect and antiquarian, Gibson Island; Ruth M. James, graduate student, Morgan State College; Maxine Keller, Librarian, Constitutional Convention; Hamill Kenny, student of Indians of Maryland; Kadidia Kiello, U.S.I.S., American Embassy, Quagadougou, Upper Volta.

Aubrey C. Land, Professor of History, University of Maryland, now of the University of Georgia; David C. Lindeman, researcher for Littleton Griswold Foundation, Columbia University Law School, New York; James A. McAllister, Jr., historian, Dorchester County; Jane McWilliams, Historic Annapolis, Inc.; Richard K. MacMaster, graduate student, Georgetown University; Louise Magruder, genealogist, An-