

WILLIAM H. BISHOP.

Mr. William H. Bishop, for many years a clerk in the Internal Revenue Department of this city and a descendant of one of the most prominent families in Maryland, died at his home in Catonsville, February 11, 1918. He had been in failing health for the past year.

With the death of Mr. Bishop, Maryland loses one of its authorities on the income tax. He had been a clerk in the Internal Revenue office for 25 years, and was the head of the income tax division. He was one of the most competent and best informed clerks in the service throughout the country. Not only did he know the law, but the regulations as well, and for years had been responsible for the more arduous work and accounts of the office, and none rendered more efficient and faithful service.

Mr. Bishop was at one time very prominent in the social life of the city, and he has always had a host of friends, both in and out of the city, who will always remember his dignified, kindly manner.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fannie S. Bishop, a sister, Mrs. C. B. Tucker, and two brothers, Mr. John A. Bishop of Baltimore and the Rev. R. C. Bishop of New York.
