

E. B. TAYLOR

Mr. Taylor, despite the war, has just concluded the biggest year, as far as volume of business is concerned, in the history of his corporation. In August he secured what is probably the biggest contract ever given a colored man. It was to feed the entire Students Army Training Corps of Baltimore, and he simultaneously served three times a day at the Johns Hopkins University, Johns Hopkins Medical School, College of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore Dental College, University of Maryland, Lehmann Hall and Naval Reserves Armory. The contract was to continue for nine months, but the ending of the war cut it down to two months. He continued his war work, being prominent in nearly every branch of citizen activity. Since our last issue he has given up his bachelorhood by marrying Miss Esther A. Shackelford of Richmond, Kentucky.

He was recently elected president of the Morgan Building and Loan Association, which has begun to do an excellent business.
