

The Cosmopolitan Community Church of Baltimore, Md.

Organized May 5, 1925, in the basement of Shiloh Baptist Church, Clinton and George Streets, with three hundred members.

After worshipping two Sundays at this location, the congregation moved to the building formerly known as the Rainbow Theatre, remaining there until August when the property located at 1112 Madison Avenue was purchased at a cost of $35,000.

Four years of arduous labours brought success to the efforts of the membership, so much so, that on February 3, 1929, the present edifice was bought for $57,000 and the task of paying off this obligation was begun.

In the nine years that have followed, aided and abetted by a united congregation which has grown to 650 contributing members, the officials of the church have reduced the indebtedness of the church to $21,400.

Services are held every Sabbath morning and evening. Bible School 9.30 A. M., Morning Worship 11.00 A. M., Evening Worship at 8.00 P. M., Prayer Meeting Wednesday Eve at 8.00 O'clock, Choir Rehearsals Tuesday at 8.30 P. M.
