1819.

RESOLVED, That the governor be requested to transmit copies of the foregoing resolution to each of our senators and representatives in congress.

No. 71.

RESOLVED, That the governor be and he is hereby authorised and requested, to purchase two copies of Kilty's laws and two copies of the new compilation, and pay for the same by an order on the treasury of the western shore, and to present one of said copies to the Athæneum, a literary institution in Philadelphia, the other to the American Antiquarian Society, a similar institution in the state of Massachusetts, and one copy of the new compilation to the Baltimore Library Company.

Passed Feb 14 1820
Relative to the purchase of Kilty's laws

No. 72.

WHEREAS, it appears to this general assembly, by the report of Perry Benson and Lambert Reardon, who were authorised under the authority of the house of delegates to examine and report the situation of the armoury at Easton, that it contains three thousand seven hundred and seventy-one muskets, three thousand five hundred and fourteen bayonets, three thousand five hundred and sixty-two cartridge boxes, two hundred and seventy-two pistols, six hundred and eighty-one holsters, two hundred and ninety-one artillery swords, and many other implements of war, and that one fourth of the muskets are in a ruinous condition, the other in tolerable order, the bayonets are in boxes covered with rust, the swords, mounting and iron scabbards, are rusting to their destruction, the pistols are most of them in good order except a parcel laying loose, dirty and rusty; there are also sixteen cannon, one half of which are in the armoury, the other half laying on the ground subject to the abuse of idle people, some appear to be spiked and their calibers filled with dirt and brick bats; Therefore,
