

of Kent, Denton of Anne Arundel, Henry Hall of Calvert, Brannock of Dorchester, Mathews (Chairman of the Committee on Aggrievances) and Sherdine of Baltimore, and Edward Sprigg of Prince George's.

The Message to the Upper House sent upon May 30, was approved by a vote of 38 to 6—the highwater mark of the opposition to the Proprietary. Only Harris and Hynson of Kent, Hanson of Charles, Henry of Somerset, Hooper of Dorchester, and Gordon of Annapolis voted no. (Dulany was absent.)

The Lower House determined, on June 2, not to pass the arms and ammunition act, by a vote of 34 to 11. To the six negative votes of the last division were now added Aisquith of St. Mary's, Middleton of Charles, Gale of Somerset, Trippe of Dorchester, and Dulany of Annapolis.

On June 3, the same question was voted upon in the last division of the Session and was carried as before by a vote of 33 to 13—only four members being absent. The minority was increased by the votes of Denton and Henry Hall. We are fortunate to have record of the divisions. In Virginia, the Proceedings give no such information.

In general, the factiousness of the Lower House must be condemned and Ogle's judicious conduct praised.

In the appendix are printed several rather important papers which have not previously appeared in the Archives concerning Pennsylvania boundaries, Indian troubles, and instructions from the Proprietary to his officials. The Index was prepared by the editor in accordance with his usual custom.
