

Harbor Tunnel, the greatest project of engineering ever undertaken by the State, which was completed in November 1957.

The Governor is an Episcopalian and a Lay Reader of the Episcopal Church. He has taught a Methodist Bible Class and has been superintendent of an Episcopal Sunday School. He has preached lay sermons in churches of many denominations from New England to Texas.

Governor McKeldin's present address is Government House, Annapolis, Maryland.