Under the United States Department of Justice, the United States Attorney and Assistant Attorneys are the federal government's principal trial lawyers. The duties of the U.S. Attorney's Office include prosecuting all federal criminal cases and representing the federal government in civil litigation.

The United States Attorney is appointed to a four-year term by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the U.S. Senate. The U.S. Attorney serves at the pleasure of the President. Assistant U.S. Attorneys are chosen by the U.S. Attorney and appointed by the U.S. Attorney General for indefinite terms.
