No. 4

(Senate Joint Resolution 6)

Joint Resolution requesting the State Department of Education and the University of Maryland to study the possibility for a program of teacher training for liberal arts graduates of the University.

WHEREAS, during the course of a general study on the problems of teachers' salaries and the recruiting of teachers for the public schools, by the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters, attention was given to the constant need for a steady supply of new teachers in the public school system; and

WHEREAS, mention was made of the good possibilities for recruiting teachers among liberal arts graduates of our colleges and universities who did not major in education and, therefore, do not have the training courses in methods and procedures of teaching; and

WHEREAS, it may well be possible that a special program of teacher training work given to liberal arts graduates immediately after graduation might fit them, within a relatively short period, for teaching in the public schools; now, therefore be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the State Department of Education and the University of Maryland be requested, jointly, to explore the possibilities for special courses in teaching methods for the benefit of liberal arts graduates who did not major in education, in order to fit such young people, within a relatively short period, for possible employment in the public schools.

Approved February 1, 1957.

No. 5

(Senate Joint Resolution 9)
