

defined term "person" may be observed by visual surveillance. See § 1-101 of this article.

In subsection (a)(4)(i) and (iii) of this section, the references to an "individual" are substituted for the former references to "another" for consistency within this section.

In subsection (c) of this section, the reference to the consent "of that individual" is substituted for the former reference to consent "of the person in the private place" for clarity and brevity.

In subsection (e) of this section, the reference to "[a]n individual who was under" visual surveillance is substituted for the former reference to "[a] person who was subject to" visual surveillance for clarity.

In subsection (f) of this section, the term "affect" is substituted for the former terms "abrogate" and "limit" for brevity.

Also in subsection (f) of this section, the reference to a right or remedy otherwise "provided by law" is substituted for the former reference to a right or remedy otherwise "available by common law or statute" for brevity.

In subsection (g) of this section, the former reference to "abrogat[ion] ... in any way" is deleted for brevity.

Defined term: "Person" § 1-101
