NOTICE.

HEADQUARTERS, ANNAPOLIS, MD.,

May 12th, 1863.

The evils resulting from the unrestricted sale of Spiritous Liquors to Soldiers, as now practiced, are such as to destroy, to a great extent, military discipline, endanger the peace and good order of this City and the Camps and Barracks in its vicinity, and to seriously impair the health and efficiency of the men.

To correct this condition of things, all persons residing in the District of Annapolis, are hereby most positively forbidden to sell, or give, to any enlisted man in the military service of the United States, spirituous liquors or intoxicating drinks of any kind whatever, without the written permission of a Medical officer in charge of a Hospital, or some Commissioned officer who is in command of a Camp, Post or detached Company, which permission must state the exact quantity authorized to be given or sold.

Those who disregard this notice and continue the practice of selling intoxicating liquors to enlisted men, without permission, will be dealt with by the Provost Marshal in such manner as is authorized by the Laws of Congress, and sanctioned by the War Department.
