

COUNTERFEITS.—Were apprehended at Barre (Vt.) and committed to goal, on the 2d inst. Samuel Sprigg and Russel Underwood, on suspicion of counterfeiting bank bills of various descriptions. The former had with him bills of the following banks, some extremely well executed, and others badly, viz. 10 and 5 dollar bills of New Hampshire bank; 5 dollar bills of Maine bank; 3 dollar bills of Rhode Island Union bank; 6 dollar bills of Philadelphia Exchange bank, signed A. Throft; and a 5 dollar bill of Cheshire bank. It is said they are old offenders.

An arrival at Boston, which spoke the United States Gun Boat, No. 8, was the bearer of the following letter, from the Commander.

"Gunboat, No. 8, at sea, lat. 37. N. }
"long. 16, 20, W. May 27, 1805. }

"Sir,
"THE day I sailed from Boston, (4th May) we had strong S. W. winds. In crossing the Gulph Stream, the wind blew hard from the N. N. W. we did not however, ship much water. On the 13th and 14th inst. we experienced a very heavy gale of wind from N. W. to N. N. W. towards the close of which, we had a succession of as heavy squalls as I have experienced for many years. Several times we bore up and scudded before the storm; the boat behaved well, and I pronounce her perfectly safe to cross the Atlantic.

"While scudding in the height of the gale, a sea struck and broached us too, owing to the carelessness of the man at helm. Our storm square sail was split, and blown to atoms, and our top sail yard, which was lashed on deck, was by the force of the sea, broken into three pieces; we then set the storm fore sail and made very good weather.

"With the wind a little free, we sail 8 miles per hour.

"I am with the greatest respect, your obedient humble servant,
NATHANIEL HARADEN.
"Commodore EDWARD PREBLE,
Boston.

Lord Nelson was at Sardinia watering, when the French fleet made their escape from Toulon; and was prevented by head winds, from getting out the Straights until the 1st of May.

The wheat and rye harvest is now generally got in, and on all hands, it is agreed, that the heads of the wheat is the longest and the grain the largest, fullest and heaviest, known for many years—and that it is the most plentiful crop gathered these twenty years past.

It is reported that some meetings of disaffected persons (some say of several thousands) have been lately observed in the county of Kildare, Ireland.

Experiments made by Dr. Miguel Cabaellas, one of the physicians employed by the court of Spain during the dreadful epidemic at Seville.

"Being desirous of proving, by some direct experiments, the property the mineral acids possess of destroying contagion. I placed some putrid meat in three apartments, which were immediately filled with a most putrid stench. I made fumigations with the acids in the three different apartments; in the first I used the nitric acid, in the second the sulphuric, and in the third the muriatic acid gas. These fumigations were frequently repeated during sixteen days, and the fetor was completely destroyed in all the three rooms; and during the continuance of this experiment, I inhabited the apartment where the nitric fumigation was employed without any inconvenience from the smell or suffering any bad consequence whatever.

"Dr. Sarrais was seized with the fever the day of his arrival at Seville, and died the day following.

"Not, however, satisfied with this proof of the efficacy of the mineral acids in destroying contagion, I determined to make a further experiment on myself—With this intention I took the riding coat which Dr. Sarrais wore during his dreadful illness, in which he was wrapped up, in which he had sweated, vomited, and in short, in which he had expired. Having placed this in a small room or closet, I burnt under it an ounce of sulphur, having first shut the door; next morning I exposed the great coat to a second fumigation, made with the nitric acid. The riding coat, thus purified, was spread on my bed, and having lain down under it, I slept from eleven at night until half an hour after six the next morning; I then got up, putting on no other clothes but the riding coat, which remained in constant contact with my body until eight o'clock, that I dressed myself. I then went out with the riding coat above my other clothes; I walked through the city during the morning, and for some time very quickly in the sun, until I was in a profuse sweat. I then sat down and remained quiet, wrapped up in my riding coat, until one o'clock, when I returned home. Looking upon this experiment made upon myself as complete, I thought myself at liberty to make another, by giving this riding coat to a beggar who had not been infected with the contagion. The man took the coat without the smallest apprehension or hesitation, having seen me wear it, and knowing that I was an officer of health; from this moment he wore it constantly in the day, and made use of it as a covering; to his bed at night; for twelve days following neither he nor I caught the contagion, nor suffered the slightest alteration in our health.

Signed, "MIGUEL CABAELLAS."

We often see English price currents, and have remarked the difference of duties payable between British and American ships, upon entering a port in Great Britain. In some cases, it is double on our ships to what it is on British bottoms. Commercial men tell us that this country is charged with a million of dollars extraordinary, for duties on its exports, and another million on the imports. Is this right or equal? The light money charges are enormous, and the tonnage duty is often above a dollar for ships going with cargoes to England. Ships in ballast pay less, but not under 4 shillings sterling per ton—While our duties are a poor pitiful ten per on the duty for goods imported in foreign ships; bringing in a nett revenue of one hundred thousand dollars at the most. But this is a federal plan, and therefore it must be a good thing. A boy who could tell you that two and two make four, would have known how to calculate better. But Jay's treaty mended the inequality; say some folks. No such thing. It made matters worse, and facts proved it; and yet the federalists will wish to see the disgraceful provisions of that treaty renewed. Better have no treaty, than such as that was. A rumor was lately in circulation, and eagerly spread by the federal papers, that Mr. Jefferson had agreed to revive the treaty for a year. We never believed the story, and it is now proved to be unfounded. "Peace and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none," has been said by Mr. Jefferson, and we hope he will not deviate from a system fraught with so much good to his country. [Salem Register.

A knowing federalist lately drafted the following toast: "The act entitled an act for the redemption of the whole public debt of the United States—an act that promised a great deal and performed nothing," and the toast was drunk by the federal party at Concert Hall, at the late celebration, and no honest man among them objected to it, but quaffed and drank, and probably thought the toast most excellent. When blockheads thus deceive themselves, we pity them; but when wise men act so, they deserve all our contempt. In reality the act promises much, and performs all it promises. It was passed almost five years ago, and appropriated seven million three hundred thousand dollars, annually for the payment of the principal and interest of the public debt, and about two years since, seven hundred thousand dollars were added, so that eight million is paid annually, for interest and principal—and at the close of the next Treasury year, (30th Sept.) there will have been paid under this act, at least sixteen millions of dollars of the principal of the national debt, besides about twenty one millions for the interest. Is this nothing? or rather is it not something? Go on, ye deceivers of the people. Tell falsehood upon falsehood till ye are sufficed. It is come to this now, that few believe your assertions. But it might be asked, what were the titles of your acts? Did they always promise more than they performed? Did your party ever pay off a cent of the public debt? Did it not accumulate in your keeping? Had you kept the reigns of government to this day, should we not have owed the sixteen millions which have been paid by the republicans, and would not the difference to us have been the double of that sum? A debt diminished thus you will not give credit for.—Poor creatures, how you repine and sicken at the prosperity and happiness of your country. [Ibid.]

MURDER!
GERMANTOWN, July 12, 1805.—Was found on Monday, the 1st instant, at 11 o'clock at night, the murdered body of Catharine Heisler, widow of the late Peter Heisler, deceased, formerly Catharine Veiche; she had been seen by several of her neighbors about four o'clock on said day, in her orchard, to appearance in health.—A widow and her son, living in the same house, alarmed the neighbors about 11 o'clock at night, and said they had been in search of her all the evening, and could not find her; some of the neighbors collected, made search, and immediately found her dead, at the foot of the cellar stairs; with a belief that she had fallen down, they immediately proceeded to take her out of the cellar, and found her covered with blood and many marks of violence—the stairs was blooded from the top to the bottom; blood was also found on the hearth, covered with ashes, which created strong suspicions of her having been murdered.—On Tuesday morning an inquest being held on the body of the deceased, and the jury, together with the Doctor, who had been called, returned their verdict wilful murder.—The above widow and her son being suspected, were accordingly apprehended, and safely lodged in the Philadelphia gaol, where they now remain for trial.

NOTICE.
WHEREAS my wife, MARY CROSSMAN, has absconded from my bed and board, without any just cause, and in my absence taken away with her my household furniture, and taken up with a set of loose men and women. This is to forewarn all persons from harboring or trusting her, or any of her children on my account, as I am determined to pay no debts of her or their contracting, from this date.—One principal cause of separation is—her dishonest partiality for other men.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber will dispose of the following VALUABLE PROPERTY on very moderate terms, for cash or approved notes, at short dates, viz.
The HOUSE and LOT, No. 130, Market-street, at present occupied by Wm. Clemm, Jun. The stand is equal to any in Baltimore, for any kind of business.
The HOUSE and LOT, No. 128, adjoining the above, at present occupied by Mr. P. Byrne, as a book-store.
The large LOT and IMPROVEMENTS, situate on the corner of Fayette and North-streets, containing on the former 66 feet, and running binding on the latter 155 feet to a public alley, leading into Howard-street.
A large LOT, pleasantly situated in an improving part of Front-street, Old-town, between the City and Fell's-Point, containing 75 feet front, and running 80 feet deep, on which is erected a comfortable Two Story Frame Dwelling House, with other necessary improvements.
A Valuable WATER LOT, containing 25 feet on Harrison-street, and extending the usual depth into the Falls.—This Lot is completely wharfed and filled in.
A handsome 2 1/2 acre LOT, on Whetstone Point, fronting on the road leading to the Fort, extending into the harbor.
A small TRACT of LAND, containing about 24 acres, more or less, within two miles of the City, on the Windsor Mill road. This property adjoins the country seats of Mr. John Carere and Mr. Job Smith, and is directly opposite to that of Mr. Bryden's. The whole under a post and rail fence. There are several advantages attached to this property, which will be particularly pointed out to any person inclined to purchase.

Also,
A TRACT of LAND, formerly the property of Thos. Rutter, Sen. situate within 6 miles of the city, and near the Falls Turnpike Road, containing 327 acres, 140 of which is covered with very valuable timber, of different descriptions: the residue cleared and under a substantial fence. A considerable proportion of the cleared ground is well set in grass, and contains several valuable springs, which may be advantageously used for watering the same, at a small expense. The improvements consist of a good dwelling House, with every necessary out house, and an excellent young Orchard, with the best kind of fruit.

Also,
A tract of valuable TIMBER LAND, within about the same distance from the city, containing 352 acres, 44 or 45 of which is cleared, and under cultivation. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling House, and sundry other out houses, with a thriving Apple Orchard, and various other fruit trees. There is a valuable stream of water running through this property, on which there is an excellent situation for a Saw-mill, which may be used to advantage for about 9 months in the year.—It is supposed by good judges, that each acre of the timber land will produce, if cut into cord wood, from 50 to 60 cord, but may be otherwise used to much better advantage. For further particulars enquire of Wm. Clemm, Jun. No. 130, Market-street, or of the subscriber at his seat, within 37 miles of the city.
