(FROM THE MONITEUR.)

PARIS, JUNE 6.

His Excellency Mouhib Effendi, holding one of the most important offices of the Ottoman Porte, and Ambassador Extraordinary from the Sublime Porte, had yesterday his first audience of the Emperor and King. At eleven in the morning, the Grand Master of the Ceremonies, accompanied by his attendants, preceded with six of the Imperial carriages, drawn by six horses each, to take up the Ambassador at his hotel; they were escorted by a guard of fifty dragoons, and the Ambassador was received at the door of the anti-chamber by the Colonel-General of the Imperial Guard on duty.

The Emperor was, as is usual on such occasions, seated on his throne, surrounded by his Ministers, his high Officers, &c. The Ambassador made three bows as he advanced, and was saluted in his turn by the Emperor, who took off his hat and put it on again. The Ambassador then addressed his Majesty in the following speech:

SIRE—His Majesty of all the Turkeys, Sovereign on the Two Continents and the Two Seas: the trusty servant of the Two Holy Cities, the Sultan Selim Han, whose reign be eternal! sends me to his Imperial and Royal Majesty Napoleon I. the greatest among the Sovereigns who believe in Christ, the resplendent star of the glory of the western nations; him who holds with a steady hand the sword of courage and the sceptre of justice; to deliver to him the present Imperial letter, which contains congratulations on his accession to the Imperial and Royal Throne, and assurances of a sincere and entire attachment.

The Sublime Porte has incessantly breathed its best wishes for the prosperity of France, and for the glory which her sublime and immortal Emperor has lately acquired, and the Porte was anxiously desirous to testify the joy it felt on the occasion. It was with that view, Sir, that my ever magnanimous Sovereign has ordered me to approach the throne of your Imperial and Royal Majesty, to congratulate you on your accession to the Imperial and Royal Throne, and to assure you, that the ordinary communications not being sufficient upon such an occasion, the Sultan has thought proper to send a special Ambassador, in order more signally to express the sentiments of confidence, of admiration, and attachment, with which he is deeply impressed towards a Prince, who he looks upon as the most ancient, the most faithful, and the most necessary friend of his Empire.

His Majesty made the following answer:

"The mission of your Excellency is very acceptable to me. The assurances you give me of the sentiments of Sultan Selim—your master, come home to my heart—One of the greatest and the most useful advantages which I am desirous to derive from the success of my arms, is to be able to support and aid the most useful, as well as the most ancient of my allies. It is with pleasure I thus publicly and solemnly assure you of these sentiments. Whatever of happiness or of misfortune befalls the Ottomans, will be happy or unfortunate for the French. I transmit these assurances to the Sultan Selim. Let him bring them to his recollection, whenever my enemies, who are also his enemies, would attempt to approach him. He can never have any thing to apprehend from me; and while united with me, he shall never have to dread the power of any of his enemies."

The usual presents, were then laid before his Majesty; and the Extraordinary Ambassador, after being presented to her Majesty, was re-conducted to his hotel with the same ceremony with which he came to the palace.

VIENNA, May 30.—Count Metternich, nominated Ambassador to the Court of France, is to have a stipend of 80,000 florins. Twenty thousand florins are to be allowed for his table, and 50,000 more are assigned to him for furnishing his hotel.

STATE PAPER.

As, after the Convention concluded between his Majesty, the King of Prussia, and his Majesty the Emperor of the French and King of Italy, the Principality of Anspach has, for several weeks, been occupied by the French Marshal Bernadotte, in the name of his Majesty the King of Bavaria; I make known by this Proclamation to all my Subjects, Vassals, Feudatories, Corporations, Ecclesiastics, and Lays of this Principality, in virtue of the full powers and authority with which I am invested, and the pressing orders I have received, that from this day his Prussian Majesty renounces and cedes the said occupation of this Principality to the King of Bavaria. Accordingly, in the name of the King of Prussia, I hereby attach to the Crown of Bavaria the Principality of Anspach, with all its concerns and obligations, reserving and excluding the private property of his Majesty. I liberate all the aforesaid subjects, vassals, &c. of Anspach from their allegiance to the King of Prussia; and being equally understood that their engagements respecting the private property of his Majesty shall still remain in force; and I replace under the protection of the King of Bavaria, as their new Sovereign, all their Privileges, Rights, Claims, Immunities, Appointments, Pensions, Emoluments, &c. for the enjoyment of which they will continue to perform their customary functions, and discharge the obligations imposed upon them.

"In the name and by the express direction of the King of Prussia, I thank all his faithful subjects, vassals, and servants, of the Principality of Anspach, for the attachment they have displayed to his person, and the many proofs they have given of fidelity and zeal for his service. I add the assurance, that his Majesty will always take the most lively interest in their welfare (which their new sovereign will study to increase,) and that he will with pleasure embrace every opportunity of convincing them of his unalterable regard.

(Signed) NAGLER,

Commissarial plenipotentiary on the part of Prussia to replace the principality of Anspach, under the Crown of Bavaria.

COMMERCIAL DAILY ADVERTISER

FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1806.

Such as do not feel a sense of the most poignant indignation, at the oppression exercised against the editor of the Witness, as represented in the American of to-day, deserve not the character of good men, & are in every respect unworthy of all claim to the civilized title of Americans: indeed, we would go farther, and add, that he who would countenance such unfeeling tyranny, must be steed against religion, reason and all sense of morality. So abhorrent to our feelings is the conduct of the monsters of iniquity in question, that we view them as richly deserving infamy, disgrace and even perdition itself.

Under a republican government, it is to be lamented that party zeal should stimulate the minds of its votaries to such excess of brutish and mad madness; but amidst this malignant gloom of faction we are consoled in beholding the hand of benignity stretched out to endeavor to pour "oil and wine" into the wounds of the suffering martyr. We have in view the humane interference of some of the townsmen of Osborn, and the proceedings of the good people of Newark and Norfolk, as detailed in the opposite page.

The following is an extract of a letter from a young gentleman to his father (a magistrate) in Philadelphia, dated Halifax, July 5, 1806.

"I embrace this opportunity, via New York, of informing you that since writing you from the island of Samana, I have been trading in the West India islands, and was very fortunate until returning home in the ship Hope, off Sandy Hook light house, it bearing N. N. W. one and a half leagues, was boarded and captured by the 50 gun British ship of war Lander, the infamous Whidby, commander.—When, I with the crew were sent on board her as prisoners of war, and our ship ordered to Halifax; thank Heaven my stay on board a British ship was short, owing to her crew being nearly expired; but during the short time my unpropitious fate compelled me to remain on our coast, language is too weak to print the poignancy of my feelings at the frequent view of the degradation our countrymen were compelled to submit to, frequently after our vessels had hoisted, would he order shot after shot to be fired into them, with directions to the gunner to sink the damn'd Yankee rascals, and in some cases, where an American captain being within the limits or jurisdiction of our country did not think proper to heave to, till the frigate came within gun shot, the British villain would continue firing at them until he came along side, when he would order the captain on board, make sail and run to sea, keeping him sitting on the poop exposed to the derision and contemptible insignificant remarks of the British officers and crew."

We learn by the schooner Sincerity, in 11 days from St. Croix, that Sir J. B. Warren, passed through the Keys on the 15th of July in pursuit of Jerome's fleet. (N. Y. paper.)

Captain Richard Gaul, late master of the ship Louisa, of Philadelphia, came passenger in the Emperor, from Port au Prince. He informs that the Louisa, with 230 hhd. of sugar on board, was, on the 20th of June, cut out of Leogane Roads by a French privateer; that the mate, John Robinson, & a seaman, John Strawbridge, were both shot by the French after the ship struck her colours. They were firing at the captain when the mate was killed; but the captain fortunately made his escape. The ship Louisa, was afterwards chased by a British brig into Cuba, where she was burnt by her captors. (Ibid.)

The Prefect of Venice has ordered 10 sail of the line, 6 of which of 90 guns, to be laid on the stocks in the arsenal of his prefecture; the keel of the Charlemagne was laid on the 7th of March, being the anniversary of the first coalition of Austria, Prussia, the German empire, England, Holland, Spain, Portugal, the two Sicilies, the Papal States, and the King of Sardinia, against France, which was declared in 1793, on this date there was an extra carnival and great re-joking.

The naval commissioners at Venice have ordered vast naval stores of ship timber to be transported from the forests of Dalmatia to their arsenals, and the construction of two immense dry docks, upon the same principles as those which have existed for 240 years, & by which the Venetian republic was enabled to preserve their ships from decay double the period of any other nation. Aurora.

Extract of a letter from the commanding Officer at Michillimackinack to his friend in Middlebury.

"We have had some little alarm from the Indians—they have assumed in some instances a menacing tone—in short, such has been our apprehensions, that for several nights we have slept (if slept at all) on our arms. I thought it prudent to have every thing ready for instant action, in case of attack; and though our apprehension has in a measure subsided, yet precaution is still considered necessary to insure our safety.—They are treacherous fellows, and must be watched. The old English fort of Macana, you may recollect, was taken and the garrison butchered in fifteen minutes, by a party of our copper coloured gentry, innocently engaged before the gates in a harmless game of foot ball.

"The militia of the village have regularly mounted guard for some days; but it is now discontinued. I summoned the neighbouring chiefs to meet me in council. I find the sober, reflecting part are for peace, while others now a long time idle, thirsting for blood and plunder, and thoughtless of the calamities that would follow, cry aloud for war.—The old men's council will prevail, and we shall smoke the calumet of peace together."

After a careful perusal of our latest London papers, we find that the rumor of pacific negotiations rests on no better authority than stock-jobbing speculation.

LONDON, JUNE 16.—On Saturday afternoon, before the close of the Exchange, a report was current which made some impression on the funds, that Mr. Adair was going to Paris from Vienna, in company with M. D'Oubril, upon a pacific negotiation, jointly with Russia. No accounts of Adair's arrival at Vienna are yet received, and the whole of this speculation is reared on the paragraph in the foreign papers, that D'Oubril was going to Paris from Vienna; a statement the truth of which is by no means ascertained. COMMUNICATION.
Extraordinary growth of Indian Corn.
In the year 1804, the weather about the commencement of Harvest, was intensely hot; one of the warmest of those days, there was an excessive fall of rain, in continued showers, with little or no intermission the whole afternoon, and on clearing away, the warmth had not abated; I placed a pole by a thrifty hill of corn in my field, flattened on one side for the purpose of seeing and stretching a single stalk to the extreme point, scored across, repeating this at sunrise for several days, and accurately measuring the spaces; I noted, as follows: July the 9th, until July the 10th, 24 hours, 4 inches & 3-8ths of an inch; July the 10th, until July the 11th, 24 hours, 2 inches and 1-3 of an inch; July the 11th, till the 12th, 24 hours, 2 inches and 1-2 of an inch; July the 12th, till the 13th, 2 inches and 1-8th of an inch; July the 13th, till the 14th at sunrise, 24 hours, 2 inches and 7-8ths of an inch; July 15th, the corn shot out in tassol. HISTORICAL ANECDOTE.

A Spanish soldier perceiving the palace in flames, and knowing the king's sister was in an apartment from which it was impossible for her to escape, generously resolved to attempt saving her life at the hazard of his own; and rushing through the flames for that purpose, bore her triumphantly away in his arms. By this brave and humane action the Spanish etiquette was totally destroyed, and the next day he was summoned before a bench of Judges. The crime of breaking into the presence of a Princess was now fully and completely proved against him, and the reward of his valour was to be an ignominious death. The lady however in consideration of his services, condescendingly requested the sentence might be revoked, and the judge in compliance with her desire, generously forgave the atrocious crime.
