George-Town College.
In the district of Columbia, U. States of America, under the direction of the Incorporated Catholic Clergy of the state of Maryland.

I. The annual Pension of this establishment is two hundred and twenty dollars; but for children under twelve years of age, only two hundred dollars will be required. Those Students who continue their Education through the Classes of Philosophy shall, on account of extraordinary expenses, and some particular indulgences allowed them, pay two hundred and fifty dollars per annum.
The pension is to be paid half-yearly in advance. A deduction of fifty dollars per annum will be allowed to those Parents who may choose to charge themselves with the detail of clothing their children. The College will furnish washing and mending, but will not keep particular accounts, or become answerable for clothing provided by parents.

II. In lieu of bed-linen, table-service, school books, and other articles usually required on entering establishments of this kind, each pensioner shall pay ten dollars entrance money.
III. The Sunday or Holiday Dress is uniform, and consists of a plain coat and pantaloons of blue cloth, with yellow buttons, and red cloth or kerseymer waistcoat. The use of silk is not permitted. Every Student shall bring with him his uniform dress, besides a suit for daily wear, six shirts, six handkerchiefs, six pair of stockings, and three pair of shoes, all new. Any deficiency in the above will be charged to the parents.

IV. On the above terms the Students are furnished with clothes, linen, washing, mending, lodging, board, fire, candles, table, school-books, pens, ink, paper, amusements and school rewards; so that nothing will remain to the charge of Parents, but medical attendance and medicines, postage, and such extra lessons of Drawing, Dancing, Music, &c. as they may choose to order for their children.
V. The Religion, uniformly practised by the Students living in the College, is the Roman Catholic; but for Students of other religious persuasions, there are boarding houses convenient to the College, where they will be subject to the same rules (excepted) and enjoy the same advantages for their improvement in Literature, as the Pensioners of the College.

VI. Out-Boarders with the uniform of the College, and pay annually for tuition, fire, candles, school-books, pens, ink, paper, amusements, school-rewards, &c. fifty dollars, always half-yearly in advance.
VII. The Students are taught English, French, Latin, Greek, and all the branches of Classical Education, sacred and profane History, Geography, the use of the Globes, Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry, with all other parts of the Mathematics, in the respective Classes. Four times a year the Students are called to a public examination of what they have been taught, before Parents and the Friends of Literature. Those who have made extraordinary progress, are honored and rewarded. The idle, or punishment, are confined in the vacation to certain extraordinary hours of study during play time, in order to repair what they have neglected to learn in schools; therefore if they are found deficient in the last and most important examination of the year, before the August vacation, they will not be allowed to go home during that time.

VIII. The age of admission is from eight to fourteen.—When children are not sufficiently advanced to begin a regular course of classical education, they are placed in an elementary class, attended by a particular teacher, from whom they learn to spell, read and write. Special care is taken that they learn to read well, and write a good hand, and that they speak and write French with accuracy.
IX. If the children sent to this College have been before at any other house of education, an attestation of their morals and docility will be required.
X. The greatest care is taken to instruct the children in the duties of religion and morality; and they are constantly under the eye of one or more of the Professors, who see that those duties are practised, and that the rules of civility are not violated.
XI. Cleanliness, exercise and whatever contributes to health, are attended to with particular care.

XII. All the pensioners dine and sup with their professors, and have the same table which they have. No distinctions are allowed in diet or clothing.
XIII. As long experience has convinced the Directors, that a profusion of pocket-money is very prejudicial, not only to good order, but even to study and application, they therefore request, that Parents will not be too indulgent to their children in this particular.
XIV. No allowance is made for absence during the vacation, which begins on the 15th of August, and ends on the 15th of September. To these terms, Parents are desired to be particularly attentive, in case they choose to call their children home, as the absence of a few weeks at the opening of schools, is seldom repaired without very great difficulty.
XV. When children are removed from the college, whatever new linen or clothes are furnished them on that occasion, will be charged to their Parents. After entering on a new quarter, no deduction will be made for the remaining part thereof.

The College is a large building, capable of lodging two hundred persons conveniently. The garden and court adjoining, where the young gentlemen play, are very airy and spacious. The situation is very pleasant and healthy.
It will contribute much to the advantage of the children, if Parents, on sending them, will inform the President how long they propose to leave them at the College, and for what employments in life they are designed. The regular course of education is properly classical; but such as are destined for the commercial line, have a lesson of Arithmetic and Book-Keeping, under a particular professor appointed for that purpose.

BASSETT, August 29.
Unparalleled Murder, aggravated by Suicide.
We have to record one of the most horrid scenes that ever appeared in the annals of this or any other country—a scene too dreadful for imagination to conceive—too unnatural for posterity to credit!—in which the weakness of human reasoning is totally absorbed in the dreadful result of the most mature deliberation—the public mind is still in such a state of agitation from the enormity of the transaction that we know not when it will regain its wonted tranquility. Mr. FRANCIS CONSTABLE!—a man naturally of a gloomy habit, but whose probity and placid manners for several years past, had gained him the respect and esteem of the inhabitants of this Island, in which he has long resided, has defaced all his good qualities, and will make HORROR accompany the mention and recollection of his Name by this last and most dreadful act of his life—THE DELIBERATE AND CRUEL MURDER OF HIS FOUR INFANT CHILDREN; adding thereto the still more hideous ACT OF SUICIDE, by putting a period to his own miserable existence by a large dose of Laudanum.—But, to descend to particulars, as far as they have reached us:—Mr. C. quitted his store on Wednesday afternoon, and went home, in as apparent composure, as he had ever been. He, however, in the course of the evening, evinced some degree of restlessness, and impatiently desired the Mother of his three colored Children to put them all to bed (including a fine Boy of about 14 years of age, his only Son by his late Wife) soon after this was complied with, the Woman herself retired, and he remained in the hall, preparing for the execution of his diabolical purpose, which was too fatally accomplished in the following manner, after one of his intended victims had escaped: When the stillness of night made him believe his Woman and the Children were fast asleep, he silently crept into the Chamber, and began the work of Death, by an attempt to strangle the unsuspecting Mother, hoping, by giving her at the same instant, a violent blow on the temple with a boot-jack, to render her incapable of resistance. Fortunately the blow had not the desired effect, but alarmed her so much, that she struggled from the grasp he had on her throat, and leaped through the window to call in the neighbors. Another Woman (her relation) in the house, awaked by the noise, and equally alarmed at what she saw, made her escape the same way, when Mr. C. deliberately shutting himself closely in, began the horrid tragedy. Having previously prepared Cordis, he put one round the neck of each sleeping infant, and it must be presumed, that, finding he could not effectually strangle them, he must have held them up suspended in one hand, while, with the other (horrid to relate!) he gave them repeated stabs about the body, with a pistol having a spring-bayonet. The youngest (a fine Girl not three months old) having one slight mark of the weapon on its left lap, no doubt the tightness of the cord had soon finished his purpose with her. His Son, and the two other Girls, had seven or eight stabs, many of which were mortal, and, and it is also supposed, from his left hand being much bruised and covered with blood, that he did not effectuate his purpose with the bigger Children without considerable difficulty:—in fact, one was said to have been overheard remonstrating and endeavoring to avert the purpose of this cruel Father. After the woman had got out, the cry of "MURDER" resounded through the neighborhood, and along the whole street, but did not meet for some time with due attention, for, who could credit the tale, that a Father (particularly so affectionate a one as Mr. C. had ever been) was inhumanly butchering his own children?—Nature forbade it!—By dint of perseverance, however, a few at length gave ear to it, and Mr. Adam, sen. Mr. Moore, Mr. Bambur, Mr. Popplewell, Mr. Brownbill (Mr. C's Clerk), and others, came to the house. The former gentleman called to Mr. C. requesting he would open the doors, as he had some business to transact with him. The wretched man replied with calm composure, and as if in the act of hushing one of the children to sleep, that that was no time for business, and that if he had any business to settle with him, to call in the morning, at the same time disclaiming all occasion to use Mr. A's reiterated offers of service, if he could render any. The door being at length forced, he was seen lying on the floor, huddled up; from which position, however, he immediately arose, seemingly alarmed, and approached those who had entered, ordering them repeatedly to quit the house.—Seeing him stagger, Mr. Adam and Mr. Brownbill seized each an arm, and one saying good God, Constable, what have you done? not knowing at the time of the horrid transaction in the adjoining room; he coolly replied, Well, can you help it? and then endeavored to draw them near a table, on which, when the candle was raised, the fatal instrument of Death was seen, and immediately secured. He was then led to the sofa where being laid he almost instantaneously fell a sleep—TO WAKE NO MORE!—On carrying the candle into the Chamber, what a scene presented itself!—Four hapless Infants weltering in their blood!—three of them already dead, and the oldest Girl who just lived long enough to be removed into the next room, said she was dying, and asked for some water, when she joined her murdered brother and sisters! Assistance was procured for the wretched Father, but happily assistance was in vain—he lived in convulsive agony till past 8 o'clock in the morning, when he expired a horrid spectacle to behold, as some of the bystanders who were present at the awful moment of his entering a dreadful ETERNITY, declare, that he had more the ghastly appearance of a Demon, than of a fellow man! When the Inquest was held on the Body of this wretched Man, the dreadful Verdict of SELF MURDER was returned. Two papers were produced in evidence, one purporting to be a Letter dated the 21st of August, addressed to Thomas Pemberton and Richard Priddle, Esqs. wherein he names them Trustees of a Deed executed on the 16th of August.—The other apparently intended as a Justification of his Conduct in this last Act and is as follows:

"POOR wretched Creature! what hast thou brought thyself and that poor unfortunate boy to!"
"When I reflect on the happy situation I was once in, and look now to what I am reduced to, life becomes a burthen; not the most distant hope or prospect of ever getting forward. As I must fail, I had better give up while I can pay every one honestly their own, and not by delay injure those that might repose confidence in me."
"My poor unfortunate boy! my heart bleeds to see the misery I have bro't you to! this drives me to Melancholy, Despair and Madness. Let us leave the World, my poor fellow! before you know the state you are reduced to."
"My poor dear Child, I don't regret the little Settlement that is made on you: I wish it had been more. Had it remained in the hands of your Father, it would have been wasted away, and you would be unprovided for. Your unhappy Father feels for the pain it must give you to hear of his horrid and tragical end, and that of your poor Brother. Forgive me my dear Child though your sufferings will be great—I have not fortitude to bear up any longer."
"You other poor unfortunates! I have been the means of your coming into the World. I have not the means to leave you support—the poor Woman, your mother, has neither abilities or industry to provide for you. Shall I leave you to perish on the face of the Earth? No! it cannot be!"
"Pity the poor Wretch who was drove to this by Melancholy and Despair! He was not actuated by Malice, Anger, Hatred or Revenge, but pity the poor unfortunates who would have been left to want and misery!"
"I forgive every one and beg forgiveness of any that I may have unknowingly injured."
"Put the Poor unfortunates into the Grave with decency, as soon as it can be lawfully done, that the horrid scene may be closed from the world."

BOSTON, September 25.
Captain Star, who arrived here yesterday from Rotterdam, informs us, that he spoke on the 1st instant, the ship Enterprise, 28 days from London, the Captain of which reported to him, that Mr. Fox was so dangerously indisposed, as to create a belief that he would not survive many days; that being made sensible of the danger of his situation, he had expressed, as the strongest desire of his heart, to live long enough to bequeath to his country a Peace with France. If the dates of this intelligence be true, our previous accounts from England invalidate that part of it which relates to the extreme danger of Mr. Fox's illness. His real sentiments of Peace are not satisfactorily explained, as yet.
Captain Shattuck, arrived here yesterday from Cadiz, in 40 days, informs, that previous to his sailing, news was received from Madrid, by express to the Chamber of Commerce, that Peace was signed between France and England, on the 31st July; and that for two days after leaving port, he distinctly heard the firing of cannon, and other rejoicings in consequence, he presumes, of this news.

Our advices from France and England, which are to the 7th August, shew that there must be some mistake in this report, as they completely destroy its validity.
Captain Shattuck further informs us, that a rumour prevailed for some time, of Peace being concluded between Spain and England; but at his departure had entirely subsided.
It was reported, that the French troops in Naples had made an attempt against Sicily, and been defeated with great loss.
There were no rumours respecting the posture of the American negotiation with Spain. The frigate Constitution had been at Cadiz, and sailed for Lisbon.
