Mr. Jenings, from the Upper House, delivers Mr. Speaker the following Message :

By the Upper House of Assembly, June 11. 1739.

Gentlemen,

THe first Reason you are pleased to give in your Message of the 9th Instant, for not reviving the Act for Arms and Ammunition, is, that the Money now in Bank amounting to £. 2250 11 2 Sterling, and £. 34 13 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ Current Gold, has not been applied to the Purposes for which it was raised ; But when you consider that at this Juncture a considerable additional Supply of Arms and Ammunition is necessary, that that Sum in Bank cannot be supposed sufficient upon any sudden Necessity, and that it is not so easy and practicable to raise Money upon an Emergency, as
